Creating Your Own Poetic Story
an online lesson from the WritingFix Website

Who is the main character of your story?

What is the main idea of your story? What choice does your character face?

How might your character face a turning point before they make their final decision about the choice they face? Will your character ignore this turning point as Kristina does, or will the turning point cause a change for your character?

What will be the outcome for your character? What lesson might your character learn from his or her choices?

List the focus for each of your 6 poems here:
