

Writer's Name:

Settings & Setting Mood
Inspired by The Phantom Tollbooth by Norton Juster

Before writing your two-paragraphs about driving through your imaginary setting, complete this graphic organizer to give you thoughtful ideas to include in your writing.

Emotion that my setting description will evoke:	Name of my place/setting:
Use the thesaurus and your excellent brain to list synonyms for and adjectives related to the emotion you've chosen:	List five non-living objects you might see in your setting that, if described well, might help your reader feel the emotion you want them to:
List smells, sounds, tastes, or feelings that you might include in your setting description that would help your readers feel the emotion you want them to:	List five living objects you might see in your setting that, if described well, might help your reader feel the emotion you want them to: