Answer the following questions – be as honest and realistic as you can.

1. What in the world needs to be changed? These can be big or small things.
2. Can you change the world? Why or why not?
3. Do you have to someday be on a list like the one we discussed to have changed the world?
4. What tools do you possess to change the world? Honesty? A sense of humor? A certain skill or personality trait?
5. How might you use what tools you have to impact the world?
6. If you honestly feel you can't or won't change the world, why not? Is it because of things you control or is it out of your hands?
7. Do you think Atticus thought he could change the world, or even just Maycomb? Why or why not?
8. What tools did he use to at least try to bring about change?
