

Flowers

by Maddie, third grade writer

The most important thing about flowers is you get to smell them. When you smell flowers, rainbows go over the world. All the colors make you feel like you are on Jupiter in the red dot. Some flowers are like the color of the sun bubbling. But the most important thing about flower is you get to smell them.

Glass

by Andrew, third grade writer

The most important thing about glass is that you can see through it. It is shiny, really shiny. It can really break into tiny bits. Car windows are made out of shiny glass. But the most important thing about glass is that you can see through it.

Eyeballs

by Jasmine, third grade writer

The most important thing about eyeballs is that you can see with them. When you see stuff with your eyes, all of the colors look like dancing lights. Your eyeballs are filled with gooeey, icky stuff. When you look at someone with your eyes, they are so pretty like my mom and my teacher's. But the most important thing about eyeballs is that you can see with them.

Taylor

by Dayton, third grade writer

The important thing about Taylor is he can't tell jokes when he's ice skating because the ice might crack up. Taylor is so cool he can freeze the sun. Taylor is so nice he won't hurt a fly. Taylor can swing so high it looks like he's flying. But the most important thing about Taylor is he's so funny that he can't tell jokes when he is ice skating because the ice might crack up.

Hot Dog

by Beau, third grade writer

The most important thing about a hot dog is they make me growl like a big dog. A hot dog smells like bacon. I like to eat hot dogs on a hot summer day. Hot dogs taste like pig. But the most important thing about a hot dog is they make me growl like a big dog.

Miley Cyrus

by Isabella, third grade writer

The most important thing about Miley Cyrus is that she is my favorite singer. Miley Cyrus is nice to people and loves animals. Miley Cyrus is so pretty that she could freeze you. Miley Cyrus is just a normal girl. But the most important thing about Miley Cyrus is that she is my favorite singer.

These six third graders, inspired by the lesson at the WritingFix website, worked on word choice and details as they composed the passages above. Read each paragraph above and comment on each writer's word choice and use of details.